Rushton "Grandma & Grandpa"

Rushton Star Creations — Rubber Face & Hands, Plush Body, circa 1950s–1960s

HISTORY

Alongside their well-known "Jack & Jill" children's dolls, the Rushton Company of Atlanta, Georgia also produced a charming line of elderly character dolls — affectionately dressed "Grandma" and "Grandpa" figures — using the same molded rubber/vinyl face-and-hands construction over a soft plush body that made their Star Creation line so distinctive. These character pairs captured a warmer, more whimsical side of mid-century plush toy design, portraying beloved grandparent figures rather than children or animals.

NOTABLE INFORMATION

- ◆ Maker: Rushton Company, Atlanta, Georgia
- ◆ Line: Rushton Star Creation — "Grandma & Grandpa" character pair
- ◆ Construction: molded rubber/vinyl face and hands, soft plush body
- ◆ Era: circa 1950s–1960s
- ◆ Condition: please note any cracking or discoloration typical to aged rubber faces

COLLECTOR NOTES

Rushton's character pairs like Grandma & Grandpa are less commonly found than the Jack & Jill children's dolls, which adds to their appeal among dedicated Rushton and mid-century plush collectors. As with all Rushton rubber-face pieces, condition of the molded face material is the primary value driver — clear, uncracked faces with original clothing intact bring the strongest prices, and a matched, complete pair commands more than either figure alone.
